Section A: Unseen Translation

In 218 BC the Carthaginian general Hannibal in an effort to defeat the power of Rome led his army, containing elephants, up through Spain, across the south of France and over the Alps in to Italy

Hannibal, ubi exercitum trans flumen Rhodanum duxerat, Alpes transire parabat. sed multi eius milites hostes et iter longum timebant. Hannibal igitur suas copias arcessivit ut animos fortiores faceret. inquit, ‘vos hostes semper vicistis; omnes gentes Hispaniae sunt in potestate nostro; nunc parva pars itineris superest; iam Alpes videtis. cur altitudinem montium timetis? Pyrenaeos montes superavistis; multi antea cum filiis uxoribusque Alpes ascenderunt; num militibus armatis Alpes inviae sunt? si vos nomen Romae delere constituistis, nihil difficile vobis videbitur. aut cedite populo meliori aut finem itineris petite.’

1 Poeni igitur ad Alpes appropinquantes, tum altitudinem montium et 2 moles nivium timebant. mox tamen cum imperatores populi
 3 ad Hannibalem venissent, ‘cum Poenis’, dixerunt, ‘amici esse volumus
 4 quam hostes; et cibum et aquam vobis itinerisque duces dabimus et obsides
 5 trademus.’ Hannibal, cum haec verba audivisset, eis credidit et benigne 6 respondit et duces misit. prima pars exercitus elephanti et equites erant;
 7 post hos Hannibal cum militibus anxius sequebatur circumspectans. subito
 8 ingressi in angustiore viam, de omnibus partibus ex insidiis barbari
 9 ruerunt et Poenos oppugnaverunt, saxa in exercitum iacentes. tum vero 10 Poeni in summum periculum venerunt. nam dum dubitat Hannibal in 11 angustias exercitum ducere, alii hostes quoque oppugnaverunt; milites
 12 interrumperunt viamque obstruxerunt. ita Hannibal noctem unam sine

Section C: Unseen Translation

Translate the following passage into English. Please write on alternate lines, leaving one line blank after each line of writing.

The summit of the Alps and a difficult descent decem die in summum montem pervenerunt. milites et labore et proelio fessi, duos dies se receperunt. illi tamen casu nivis maxime perterriti erant. prima luce profecti lente progrediebantur, sed, quod multi iam desperabant, Hannibal exercitum consistere iussit. ex loco alto omnes agros Italiae manu ostendit. ‘vos muros videtis’, inquit, ‘non modo Italiae sed etiam urbis Romae; ceterae viae erunt planae et faciles; in paucis proeliis urbem Romam in potestate vestra habebitis.’

tum milites processerunt; sed via ex Alpibus in agros angustissima et lubricissima erat. ibi in uno loco rupes tam abrupta erat ut viam novam Poenis aedificare necesse esset: quod saxum caedere difficillimum erat, milites cumulum ingentem lignorum collegerunt et incenderunt: deinde acetum infuderunt et saxa iam putria gladiis fregerunt. postquam per novam viam non solum homines et iumenta, sed etiam elephantum ducti sunt.
